

Kenneth Cuno (upper left), Professor of History at University of Illinois-Champaign Urbana, speaks on "Keeping Women at Home: Colonialism and Islamic Family Law in the Ottoman Lands and Beyond" as part of the Great Lakes Ottoman Workshop, held April 18-19, 2009, at The Ohio State University. The workshop was sponsored in part by the Mershon Center for International Security Studies.

Seçil Yılmaz (far left), master's student at Boğaziçi University and Fulbright fellow at New York University, speaks on "Syphilis in Late 19th-Century Ottoman Anatolia" as part of the Great Lakes Ottoman Workshop, held April 18-19, 2009, at The Ohio State University. The conference was organized by Professor of History Jane Hathaway.